

ST. VITUS DANCE.
A Physician Prescribes Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine.
Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.
My daughter Muriel, aged 14, was afflicted last spring with St. Vitus dance and nervousness, her entire right side was numb and partly paralyzed. We consulted a physiician and he prescribed Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. We took it and now we have a very certain plan of improvement, but after that she began to improve very fast and I now think she is entirely cured. She has taken nine bottles of the Nervine, and no other medicine of any kind.

James Jan. 5, '96.—
Physicians prescribe Dr. Miles' Remedies because they are known to be the result of the long and careful efforts of one of the greatest members of their profession and are carefully compounded by experienced chemists, in exact accordance with Dr. Miles' prescriptions, as used in his practice.

Bishop Ireland's Work.

It has now developed that a telegram of Archbishop Ireland was the cause of having the plans favorable to the A. P. A.'s thrown out of the Republican platform after it had been adopted by the committee. It seems that Archbishop Ireland alone was more powerful with the g. o. p. than the entire organization of A. P. A.'s Lexington Herald.

A New Truck Farm.

An organized effort is being made on the Barbados, West India Islands, to attract settlers from Florida and elsewhere, to develop the latent agricultural resources of that frostless region. A co-operative company to export and market all produce is one feature of the scheme, and adult labor at a shilling a day is another. From Nov. 15 to May 1, the climate there is claimed to be invigorating and it is pointed out that northerners can spend the winter pleasantly in profitable truck farming and get back to their home farms at the north in season for spring work. If the plan goes through, it will further add to the competition which southern truck and western fruits have to meet in northern and eastern markets.—American Agriculturalist.

Secretary Carlisle Denies Saying He'd Vote For McKinley and Gold.

Washington June 25.—Secretary Carlisle emphatically denies the statement attributed to him by H. H. Smith, ex-journal clerk of the House of Representatives, in an interview at Kalamazoo, Mich., yesterday. Mr. Smith stated that the Secretary told him last winter that if the Chicago Convention declared for free silver he would support McKinley. Mr. Carlisle said he had not talked with Mr. Smith for two years, and added that the latter's statement was a gratuitous and malicious falsehood.

A Miner's Great Luck.

John Pierce, a Tombstone, Ariz., miner, who a year ago had not enough money to provide three meals a day for himself and family, is now in San Francisco with $250,000 in cash to his credit. He recently struck it rich while prospecting about thirty miles from Tombstone. He established a camp and gave it his name. Already there are 500 people there, and empty houses from Tombstone are being taken there bodily. An English syndicate has secured the Pierce ledge, and has organized with $1,500,000, and it is said that there is a prospect of the new camp rivaling Cripple Creek, in Colorado.

Pierce is a Cornishman, with little or no education, and worked at odd jobs throughout Arizona. His wife, before he made the strike, had to go to Tombstone and help out the family exchequer by doing such odd jobs of house cleaning as she could find, while the son, a young man, now twenty, herded cattle on the ranges. Besides one son, he has a daughter, who was given the advantage of the public schools of Tombstone.

Old People.

Old people who require medicine to regulate the kidneys will find the true remedy in Electric Bitters. This medicine does not stimulate and contains no whiskey or other intoxicant, but acts as a tonic and alternative. It acts mainly on the stomach and bowel, "adding strength and giving tone to the organs," thereby aiding Nature in the performance of the functions. Electric Bitters is an excellent appetizer and aids digestion. Old people find it just exactly what they need. Price 50 cents and a dollar per bottle at W. S. Lloyd's drug store.

Wilfrid Lawson, the English temperance advocate, relates the following story about himself: There was a school in the north of England and the master gave the children a disquisition upon the steam engine; and when he thought they all understood it, he asked, "What is it that does the work of forty horses and drags nothing but water?" And they called out, "Sir Wilfrid Lawson."

LIBERIA THE ONLY REFUGE.

Bishop Turner Urges the Negroes to Emigrate.

Selma, Ala., June 25.—The prospect is bright for an exodus of negroes from this section to Liberia this fall. The lecture of Bishop Turner, of the A. M. E. Church, Tuesday night, created a profound impression upon the hundreds who heard him. He spoke for four hours, describing the negro in America as a race in its native land without political rights, and with no possible chance to gain them. The white people of America, he said, both North and South, are a unit against the negro. He urged the negro to leave as the only refuge from these wrongs, and said the same prosecutions which drove the early colonists from England to this country would drive the negro into Liberia. He described Liberia as a land flowing with milk and honey, and pictured in glowing terms the future of the negro Republic.

The World's Wealth.

There has been no one to dispute for several years that the United States was the richest country in the world. It has remained, however, for Professor Moulton, the eminent English statistician, to gather the figures for comparison. The following table representing the combined wealth of several civilized countries is his:

United States	$64,120,000,000
Great Britain	47,000,000,000
France	42,900,000,000
Germany	31,000,000,000
United States	25,450,000,000
Austria	19,574,000,000
Italy	14,415,000,000
Spain	12,580,000,000
Australia	6,865,000,000
Belgium	5,035,000,000
Holland	4,900,000,000
Canada	4,800,000,000
Sweden	3,641,000,000
Romania	3,180,000,000
Argentina	2,945,000,000

Moulton shows that Australia has the greatest per capita wealth, Holland has the wealth the most evenly distributed, while in the capacity for production and the creation of wealth the United States leads the world. With a care for an honest dollar there is every reason for expecting that within the next ten or twenty years New York instead of London will become the world's monetary capital. THE PEACH CROP.

EXCEEDS ALL PAST RECORDS.

The Belt Above Louisville Beats the World.

Judge Stotsenburg, of New Albany, is one of the most extensive fruit growers in this section. He and his associates own 50,000 bearing peach trees. The orchards are located on the hills in Clark county, Ind., opposite Westport, Ky., and shipments have already begun.

Judge Stotsenburg says the crop this year will exceed any previous year by many thousand bushels, and the boats between Louisville and Cincinnati will be kept busy handling fruit for some time to come. Judge Stotsenburg says the peach trees in Trimble county, located nearly opposite his orchards, will bear over 400,000 bushels of fruit this year. He says that section, on both sides of the Ohio, is the best region in the United States for peach culture, not even excepting New Jersey. As the Judge is a native of the latter State he is well advised as to the merits of the two regions and their adaptability to fruit raising.—Louisville Times.

The lack of American ships, notable in nearly every foreign port, is emphasized in a recent consular report. Of over 1500 merchant steamers at Bangkok, Siam, in one year, not one was American, and of over 17,000 vessels which entered Japanese ports, in the same year only 32 carried the U. S. flag. The construction of the Nicaragua canal will go far toward increasing our Asiatic trade.

COILING RATTLESNAKES.

Farmers in New York Having Endless Trouble with the Reptiles.

Reports from the remote parts of South Bristol, a Western Ontario County town, state that the rattlesnake plague is the latest problem the farmers have to deal with. Around through Stid Hill and Stony Lousome and other wayback hamlets in the town, those who dwell on the hillsides say they can not keep young chickens more than a day or so, at the most, after they are hatched and in many cases the snakes rob the nests of the eggs as soon as the hen are through laying.

Henry Smith, one of the farmers, was thunderstruck the other evening on going to the hen yard to find a vigorous fight going on between a rattle and a big hen whose brood had been attacked by the audacious reptile. Smith soon dispatched the snake, which measured over two feet. Numerous snake hunts have been conducted by the young men and boys different Sundays of late, but although they kill large quantities each time, there are yet remaining a vast number of the poisonous snakes that dwell in the secluded parts of the mountains in this, the only mountainous part of the county. It has been known that rattlers were numerous in this section, but it is a matter of great surprise to even those cognizant of the fact that there should be such an unusual number there this spring.

In years gone by the veteran "Doctor" Chase, of Caudleburg, who dealt largely in rattlesnake oil, shipping it to all parts of the country, has made regular visits to this section in search of fat rattlers from which to secure his commodity, but for the last two years Chase has not been to the Bristol Hills, partly because he has had other business and partly because he has been able to find what he considers a better variety of snakes near Naples, in the Italy hills, which are an extension of the Blue Ridge range.

The wife of Conrad Scheuer, a German farmer, went out to milk the other night and found her favorite cow standing in tremulous terror in a fence corner; on investigating she found a young rattle about ten inches long, with two wee buttons on its tail, completely clinging to the bovine's udder and exacting therefrom lots of satisfaction and considerable lacteal fluid. Mrs. Scheuer was made of sturdy stock, and promptly attacked Mr. Snake, with results fatal to him.

Now a petition is being circulated in that neighborhood to Mr. Chase to come up there on the hills and exterminate the pestiferous snakes, and if necessary to bring with him to aid him in the work the famous "Rattle Snake Pete" of Rochester, who it is thought, could make a valuable addition to his already complete collection.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

PHOTOGRAPHY IN COLORS.

POSITIVE ASSERTION THAT IT HAS BEEN ACCOMPLISHED.

The New York World says that photography in colors is assured. James W. McDonough, of Chicago, and Prof. Jolick, of Duluth, who were attempting to secure patents, agreed that the successful one should pay the other a fee and the capitalists in the undertaking would support the one successful. McDonough won after a contest. Ten days ago the Natura Color, Photography and Printing company was incorporated at Richmond, Va., with a capital of $500,000 with right to increase it to $5,000,000. The process requires a specially ruled screen and specially ruled paper. A multi-colored screen, ruled by very fine lines, formed of dots or small particles is employed. The screen is ruled with lines in these colors, about 300 to the inch. This screen is placed in front of and in close contact with an orthochromatic plate, which is then exposed in the chamber to the object to be photographed. The ordinary black and white negative is thus obtained in lines corresponding to the colors in the screen. From this negative a positive is made in the ordinary way on glass or paper. If now the screen or a similarly ruled one, be laid on the positive and moved until the positive and screen are in register, the picture comes up in original colors.

The fresh young man who styles himself editor of the Free-Lance has taken occasion in more than one issue of his paper to heap a large amount of gravitation abuse on the heads of the editors of the Advocate because of the insertion of an article—coupled without one word of comment from another paper and to which paper proper credit was given for the article in question.

The fresh young man has a great deal to learn yet. We had given him credit for sense enough to know we were only so much responsible for that article, uncommunicated on and credited as it was, as he is for the articles that appear in the dead plate he has been running in the Free-Lance, the property of Kellogg & Co., and which same dead plate, was used in the old Montgomery County Times the Morehead Leader and we do not pretend to say how many other dead sheets and which will probably be used by the successor of the Free-Lance when it like its predecessors, shall have turned its little toes to the daisies.

That the very fresh young man has not so much mother wit as we gave him credit for, is his fault not ours. Good old Father Henley is too old, but it robust Father Jones with his robust common sense were here, we think. It would not need that we should suggest he take this very fresh young man into his little back room and placing him across his knee give him the spanking his very bad break so richly deserves.

It is just such intemperate and inflammatory expressions from just such undigested younglings as is giving the A. P. A. movement any sort of countenance among the great mass of the people.

The very fresh young man has a right to be a Romanist, in religious belief. We have no fault to find with him for this, but he is just a little too free with his expressions of "holy" and "wifely slander". The man who edits the Western Recorder and who wrote the article complained of, is a man of such truth, strength and worth that one sentence of his would outweigh it, even among respectable and intelligent Catholics, all the fresh young man can ever write—all this aside too from what might be his (Dr. Estor's) influence elsewhere.

The fresh young man did not even have wit enough to see that he was answering himself and rendering nugatory every word he wrote when he published along with his abuse the letter of Cardinal Gibbons commented on by Dr. Estor.

We are frank to confess that much as we would deprecate the success of the A. P. A. in this country, we would vastly prefer it to Roman domination which the fresh young man so ardently desires to see. Rome has not proved herself so tender a mother in the past that we would desire to see this country taking its cubicles from the "Man on the Fiber." Just here we will take occasion to say neither the dream of the A. P. A., nor yet that of the fresh young man in respect to Roman domination, will ever come to pass in America.

The writer is old enough to remember bitter Know-Nothingism with its secret lodges, but he did not have to grow gray hair before he saw the people of this great country of political and religious freedom, hurry it in a grave so deep that it was forty years before a like organization could dare to make itself felt in the land again, and he expects to live long enough to see the A. P. A. go the same grave yard. Nor are we vexing our souls very much over the fear of Roman Catholic domination. The people of America will dispose of that also when the times are ripe for it.

The fact that we may be abused by some wills less will not keep the ADVOCATE from printing as it shall see fit any criticism on any member or set of members of the Methodist, Baptist, Christian, Presbyterian or Catholic churches. More than this, no one possessed of a right well balanced mind is going to take offence at such criticism.

The very fresh young man's very brash expressions are not calculated to either him or his immediate friends any great amount of good in a political way, since they serve to call up quite vividly the action of electioneering in the last county election. In a business and social way such brawls as he are calculated to do his friends full too much harm.

Mr. Whitney in an interview at New York Saturday, said that he looked for no compromise at Chicago, and admitted that, unless Southern and Western Democrats were disposed to reason with those of the East, he saw no chance whatever for sound money. Judging from the letter he receives he says there is no apparent disposition to discuss the matter. He asserts that a free coinage platform at Chicago will disrupt the Democratic party.

In an interview in the New York Tribune Senator Lindsay is quoted as saying: "It strikes me that we are going straight to the devil, but I hope we will round to somewhere before we strike the jumping-off place." He said Bland was the logical candidate for the free-silver Democrat for the presidency.

The minutes for the State Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, of the M. E. Church, South, will be published from this office.

Eighteenth Annual Meeting of W. F. M. S.

Mr. Eboron.—The 18th annual meeting of the Kentucky Conference of Woman's Foreign Missionary Society convened at London, Ky., on last Friday.

London, Ky., is a thriving town of 1200 inhabitants. It lies in a fertile valley among the picturesque hills of Laurel County, on the Knob Hill branch of the L. & N. railroad. The pure mountain air seems laden with the delicate perfume of the flower from which the county derives its name, and bearing upon its fragrance the very spirit and fraternal greeting.

Thirty years ago there were ten bar rooms and no churches in the town. To-day there are 7 churches and not a single saloon exists to cast a shadow over the prosperity of the place. Hence, we were not surprised, instead of a primadonna and rustic people, to find them intelligent, religious and refined. A goodly number of college bred and women adorn the society of the place, and the choir which led the singing would be a credit to any church in the State.

On Friday, June 19th, this historic little city opened its hearts and homes to the delegates and visitors to the annual meeting of the Kentucky Conference of Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, and never was a cordial welcome more generously extended to any body of christian workers.

On Saturday evening we listened to addresses by Mayor J. T. Williams, Rev. H. O. Moore, Mr. A. B. Brown and Miss Katherine Jackson, all breathing forth a glad "Welcome" to the people of London, and other points of interest, but space forbids.

As we lingered to say "good-bye" many expressed the opinion that this was certainly the most delightful meeting we have ever held, and that no place had ever shown to visitors, true hospitality than the little city of London. We meet next year in Versailles. A. MAY NOREN, Secretary.

Why

Do people buy Hood's Sarsaparilla in preference to any other?—In fact almost to the exclusion of all others!

Because

They know from actual use that Hood's is the best, i.e., it cures when others fail. Hood's Sarsaparilla is still made under the personal supervision of the educated pharmacist who originated it.

The cures it makes is just as positively decided in favor of Hood's as the question of comparative sales.

Another thing: Every advertisement of Hood's Sarsaparilla is true, honest.

A HUNDRED DEAD.

Death Comes to a Hundred Miners
In a Coal Pit.

While a number of experienced miners were strengthening the supports under the roof of a mine at Pittston, Pa., about 3 o'clock Sunday morning the supports suddenly gave way letting the roof down on the men. But three escaped and between ninety and one hundred were entombed. The supports had shown signs of weakness and the most experienced miners in the neighborhood were sent to repair the dangerous parts. More than two thirds of the men buried in the mine were married and leave families.

He Stole Meat and Broke Into Jail

Martin Lacy, a coon, was arrested Saturday charged with breaking into Charlie Donohue's smoke house last May and stealing 12 hams of meat. He had his trial before Ex-Judge W. Morris last Monday and in default of $500 bail was sent to jail to await the action of the grand jury. Mr. Donohue suspected Lacy and went to his home, pretending to want to light his pipe. They were not overly anxious for him to enter the house, but he finally got in and in an old stairway discovered his sack, which, when he had the opportunity, put into his pocket and this was the clew which led to Lacy's arrest. Lacy had an excellent character and the evidence in this case is sufficient to give him a term in the penitentiary.

The Fin de Siecle Club Does

A MOST ENJOYABLE AFFAIR.

The young ladies of Mt. Sterling and vicinity last night tendered the young men of their acquaintance an evening of rare enjoyment in the nature of a ball at the Masonic Temple.

Montgomery women never do anything by halves even to be sweet and pretty. They know how to do the most useful things in the most way, and never fail to do just such things in just such a way. The ball room was handsomely decorated and Saxon's band of nine pieces from Lexington furnished the music. The young ladies paid for the carriages and escorted the young men to the ball room. They had seen that everything was in order and that nothing was lacking to give their guests the most enjoyable evening possible. They succeeded in doing this in a way that will long be remembered by the guests of "our girls." Such an array of beauty has seldom been seen in any assemblage; nor will the young men who are in the habit of getting up such affairs fail to take notes of the splendid appointments by these ladies. All in all there has been no more successful entertainment in Mt. Sterling than this proved to be.

Gay-Bridgforth.

On last Thursday morning at the Baptist Church in this city, Rev. Everett Gill officiating, John S. Gay, Jr., of Woodford county, and Miss Mattie Bridgforth, of this county, were joined in the bonds of holy wedlock.

The church was exquately decorated by the ladies of the congregation in white and green, forming a perfect bower of beauty.

Promptly at 11:30 o'clock, to the strains of the bridal song, over which Mrs. J. H. E. Jephcott presided, the bride entered upon the arm of her brother, Mr. L. L. Bridgforth, preceded by the ushers, R. A. Chiles, R. M. Bridgforth, R. G. Kern, J. G. Trimble, Jr., and attendants, Misses Annie Johnson, Margaret Woodford, Lila Chenuant, of Richmond; Mary Arnett and Hallie Guy, of Woodford county; Annie Duerson, and Mary Bridgforth; Dr. Robert James, of New York; Mrs. Robert James, of Fayette county; Andrew Steel, of Woodford county; and John Jones, of Fayette county. Near the center of the room were met by the groom and his brother, Mr. Robert Gay, and by an eloquent, impressive ceremony they were made one. The bride and her attendants were attired in gowns of Paris muslin and Dresden ribbons, wore white laces and carried shower bouquets of roses, and presented an unsurpassable picture of loveliness.

Miss Mattie is the second daughter of Mr. and W. M. Bridgforth, of this county, and has endeared herself to all her acquaintances by her beauty, grace and intelligence. Mr. Gay is the son of Mr. John Gay, a prominent farmer of Woodford county.

Immediately after the ceremony the bridal pair left for an extended trip to Old Polk Comfort and other places of interest in the East, after which they will make their home in Woodford county.

A woman never really knows the meaning of happiness and content until she is the mother of a healthy, happy child. The health of the child depends on the health of the mother, both before and after birth. Most all of woman's weakness and particularly the weakness that most strongly influence the health of children, comes from some derangement or disease of the distally female organs. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will cure troubles of this nature. It should be taken regularly by every woman during the entire period of gestation. It gives strength to all the organs involved, lessens the pains of childbirth and leaves the health of both mother and child.

The hop given by the Sterling Dancing Club on last Thursday evening was to all who enjoy dancing a pleasant occasion. The young women were never more handsome and graceful while the young men were never more gallant. Saxon's band of Lexington furnished the music.

IT'S MIGHTY COMFORTIN.

It's mighty comfort when your hair is gotten this way. The wrinkles in your face have come to rest. You feel like a child again. You feel her little hand smooth out each silver strand. When you meet her, her look and her smile say, "My dears, it seems as though every day goes like a year. I'm getting old. You can't see me in the old days." You smile back at your wife while you think in all your life.

Somehow, the teardrops rise to your dim, old faded eyes.

While you kiss the tender hand still white and soft, you try to tell her how you loved her—then you love her now.

These words will come at all times.

Then it comes to you to think of trials she's gone through.

With a smile, without a murmur for trials, you turn her hair back at the lovin things she's said.

And your poor old heart can only ache and ache.

She knows what calls you then, and she likes you smiling.

You hear her gently whisper, sweet words of love.

She has more hopes than fears.

We have known more smiles than tears.

To the dearest dear of dears, John Andrew, you say, "I'm getting old. You're so comfortin, I say, when your hair is gettin gray and your lips don't move like it's mighty to feel her little hand stroke back each silver strand.

And the whispers that she loves you—

—Mary Wright Davis in Pittsburgh Dispatch.

HIS COURTSHIP.

The moon, inconstant as of yore, leaped out occasionally between the clouds which were sounding along over the expanse of sea, and there twinkled a tiny star, and the rippling waves as they rolled gently up the beach made a low murmur that was soothing to the parts of true loves.

"And must you leave me tomorrow?" she sighed.

"I must, my darling," he replied. He gazed down into the depths of his lustre eyes ("like 'a peony rocker"). "Twill not be for long. Must get back to business, but I shall be pining for my Stella and will quickly make arrangements for being united to part no more!"

The moon conveniently disappeared again. Ah! Was that the sound of a distant drum?

The gentleman, who had given his name to Mr. Mark Leigh, had been passing a three weeks' vacation at Septon-on-Sea, where he had made an acquaintance of Miss Stella Storey, whom he had, perhaps somewhat precipitately, wooed and won. She was the only daughter of the widow of a small owner, who added her little income by letting apartments during the summer, and Stella was so pretty and winning that the wonder is she had not been carried off by some adventurous swain before, but the fact remains she had not, and as this little story is indeed a true one, the fact must be recorded.

Mr. Mark Leigh openly confessed his love for Stella, and her mother, who, apart from peculiarities upon her lodgers which are not regarded by the eighth commandment, was really a very respectable old soul, had given her consent to the match, which she regarded as being a good one for her daughter, Mr. Leigh being a colonial merchant in London.

But the host of friends, and of loves, too, must part, and the next day Mark took his leave of Shipton and of Miss Stella Storey, for an indefinite time.

It proved, however, that poor Stella was left deserted and forlorn. She neither saw nor heard anything further of the heartless villain, Mark Leigh.

It happened that late in the season Mr. Specker of the well known firm of Specker & Spottley, solicitors, staid at Mrs. Storey's, and hearing a word or two as to Stella's faithless lover he persuaded that young lady to confide her tale of woe to him, with a view to his firm commencing an action for breach of promise of marriage against Mr. Mark Leigh, who was, as Mr. Specker well knew, "good for nothing."

Mr. Mark Leigh, as known to his business friends, was a successful merchant of about 35 years of age, a bachelor and likely to remain so, for he had never cultivated ladies' society and had become so wedded to his business that no charms of nature or of art had hitherto been able to allure him from the market, and the desk, and the ledger. Arriving, as was his wont, at his office one morning just before 10 o'clock, he was accosted by a self confident sort of young man, who produced a document from his pocket, which he handed to Mr. Leigh, saying:

"From Messrs. Specker & Spottley, sir, comes the suit of Miss Stella Storey for breach of promise and for rescinding another document in the eyes of the astonished merchant, 'he is the original'!"

Mr. Mark Leigh turned very red. "What do you mean?" he asked. "I don't know any Miss Stella. What's her name? There's some mistake!"

The lawyer's clerk winked his eye in a peculiarly irritating manner. "I've done my duty and served you with the writ, sir. That's all I know about it. Good morning."

Mr. Mark Leigh said as if in bewilderment. "What did it mean? Could you have any idea?" "A pleasant little fibstion at Shipton-on-Sea?" However that might be, he knew that writers were things which must not be forgotten, so he at once walked round to his old friend and solicitor, Mr. Standwell, in Mining Avenue, to whom he handed the fibstion paper, telling him he knew nothing whatever about the lady or the promise.

Mr. Standwell looked somewhat incredulous and probed his client with some rather sly questions, but Mr. Leigh's repeating his inclemencies and showing a little irritation.

"What's this?" demanded Mr. Specker suspiciously. "Who is this girl, Miss Storey?"

"Oh, that's the plaintiff, is it?" cried Mr. Standwell. "That gentleman is the defendant, Mr. Mark Leigh."

"And this is not the gentleman at all," exclaimed Stella. "There has been a mistake, and some one has deceived me and told me his name!"

"How!" ejaculated Mr. Specker.

"I wrote and told you so, but I suppose you didn't believe me," said Mr. Standwell triumphantly.

"Well, I naturally thought your letter was a 'bluff.' You have thought the same!" said Specker.

"What's to be done?" asked Specker.

"Oh!" replied the other blandly, "we must try the action, of course. Will you submit to a verdict for the defendant without evidence?"

Something very like a naughty word escaped Mr. Specker's lips as he saw his vision of a fat bill of costs dissolving into thin air. But just then the usher called the case, and they all hurried into court, except the two principals, who had retired to the end of the passage and were talking animatedly together.

Mark Leigh's only sister had got married recently and left his home, and he had been in a state of such a plague of homesickness and anxiety that he had thought several times of trying to find a wife. He so seldom got an hour away from business, however, and knew so few ladies that he was at a loss how to proceed, and here was one ready found. His business on 'change had taught him the need of snapping a bargain when he came across one, and he determined then and there to marry his mistaken partner.

"Well, Stella," he said boldly, "it's clear that both you and I have been fooled with. What do you say to our finishing it by taking it in earnest? I know and we're only a few each other about a quarter of an hour, but I'm satisfied if you are."

"It—it's so very strange," she murmured. "I don't know what to say, I'm sure."

"But you were willing to marry the false Mark Leigh. Why can't you marry the real one?" he pleaded. He took her hand, which she did not withdraw.

"That's settled, then, isn't it, dear?" he asked.

"Yes, if you say so," she said simply. "You are very good, after I've given you all this trouble."

"Oh, thank you, sir," she said in a whisper. "I have a desire to give evidence, and I'm a stranger."

"What a remarkably nice looking sensible, modest sort of girl," said Mr. Mark Leigh to himself as he left home.

And now it became clear, once for all, that he had told Mr. Standwell the truth and knew nothing about the fair Stella Storey, for an idea seized him and he ran after his questioner. Could this sweet girl be the plaintiff in his action, whom he had deputed to himself as a brazen faced Mrs. Bardell?

He touched her gently on the arm. "Excuse me," he said. "I might ask what action you have to give evidence in?"

"Oh!" said Mark. "I couldn't make out with a clear conscience leaving over her head. I'll pay them."

"More fool you," said Mr. Standwell afterward. "It was a speculative action, and they deserved to lose every 'h'penny.' They could never have got anything out of a married woman."

But Mark had his own way and paid all the costs on both sides and married the plaintiff, and he declares she was cheap at the price.

They are a remarkably happy couple and never have the slightest jangle, except when Mark declares that Stella did all the courting.

"Well, so you did," he says when she denies it. "You know you did. You courted me in the queen's behalf!"—London Tit-Bits.

She looked prettier than ever, thought Mark.

"Don't cry," he said gently. "Come over to this seat and sit down. There's been some mistake. But what it is I can't imagine, for I believe there is only one Mark Leigh in England, and I am he."

She sat beside him, and in answer to his questions told him how she had been courted and deceived.

"Some fellow has been taking liberties with my name," he said.

"She's certain. What was he like?"

"I can't describe him."

"I suppose he was!" cried.

"It was a fellow named Blahkins, one of my clerks, whom I discharged for dishonesty. I am really very sorry for you!"

By this time the solicitors and counsel had arrived. There were Mr. Standwell and his counsel, Mr. Lettymen and Mr. Pruvitt and Mr. Specker and his counsel, Mr. Sportleigh and Mr. Larper.

They were about to enter the court when Mr. Specker and Mr. Standwell spied their clerks at the same moment.

"What's this?" demanded Mr. Specker suspiciously. "Who is this girl?"

"Oh, that's the plaintiff, is it?" cried Mr. Standwell. "That gentleman is the defendant, Mr. Mark Leigh."

"And this is not the gentleman at all," exclaimed Stella. "There has been a mistake, and some one has deceived me and told me his name!"

"How!" ejaculated Mr. Specker.

"I wrote and told you so, but I suppose you didn't believe me," said Mr. Standwell triumphantly.

"Well, I naturally thought your letter was a 'bluff.' You have thought the same!" said Specker.

"What's to be done?" asked Specker.

"Oh!" replied the other blandly, "we must try the action, of course. Will you submit to a verdict for the defendant without evidence?"

Something very like a naughty word escaped Mr. Specker's lips as he saw his vision of a fat bill of costs dissolving into thin air. Christian Endeavor Union.

The Montgomery county Christian Endeavor Union will hold a meeting at the Gilead Church, near the Lower, next Friday evening July, 3rd. All Endeavorers are urged to be present. An excellent programme has been arranged and a good time is expected.

The delegates from the Ladies Society of the M. E. Church, who attended the State meeting at London are Mrs. C. J. Nugent, Mrs. Lucy B. Ogg and Miss May Seaton. Rev. C. J. Nugent was also in attendance. They were very proud of their financial showing under the leadership of Mrs. C. J. Nugent, it being double that of any previous year. Mrs. C. J. Nugent was again made Secretary, and, by the way, she is regarded by all as the very best—quick to catch a point, she is always up with work and her minutes are full and comprehensive.

The Union Services which are held by the churches of this city each summer during July and August, will begin next Sunday evening at the Baptist Church. Rev. C. W. Baptist Church, first Sunday.

First Presbyterian Church, second Sunday.

Methodist Church, third Sunday.

Christian Church, fourth Sunday.

Southern Presbyterian Church, fifth Sunday.

And repeat services.

The Sunday School Union.

EDITORS ADVOCATE.—WHY YOU ALLOWED to use our columns for a few words, in regard to the "Sunday School Union?"

I have frequently been asked, "What has the Sunday School Union accomplished?" The questioner implying that it has done nothing for us and therefore I see no reason for its existence or our doing anything for it. It seems to me that the consideration of a few facts will satisfactorily answer the question to every candid, thinking person. It is not fair to ask anyone to endorse such a movement unless its purpose can be made plain.

What then is the Sunday School Union? What is its purpose? Let me answer the last question first, by glancing at the State Union and then speaking of the County Union.

Article I of the State Constitution says: "Its object shall be to promote the efficiency of Sunday schools in Kentucky." A good object, surely, whether it be the object of an individual, an association or an organization. If it is possible for the Sunday schools of the State to be made more efficient, whoever or whatever seeks to make them more efficient seeks to have the hearty co-operation of every Sunday school worker, provided he is worthy of confidence. A careful consideration of the methods of the Sunday School Union will show whether or not it is capable of making Sunday schools more efficient. We may consider those methods later.

A County Union, which is but a subordinate organization in the State Union, has the same object as the State Union.

And now to the Sunday question: "What is the Sunday School Union?" An individual might be egotistical and think he could make Sunday schools more efficient, when, really he would know nothing about it. Some particular association might be found which would propose plans that were impractical, and which would end in confusion worse confounded, and hence be worthy of our confidence. But here is an organization which, because of its character, should appeal to every one who is at all interested in Sunday school work.

Let me quote again from the Constitution:

"Article III. Its members shall consist of all pastors in the State co-operating, and such delegates as may be appointed by Sunday schools—one for each one hundred or fraction thereof, of school's membership; each county to be entitled to five delegates from the county at large, they to be appointed by the County Convention or County President."

Thus you see it is an organization composed of representative people of the State; people who understand Christian work; people who are interested in the work of the Sunday school. They seek by interchange of ideas to develop new plans and methods or "air" of their pure minds by way of remembrance" to put in practice old ones, whereby all, both young and old, can be interested in this great work and induced to study the Bible, at least; and especially to gather the children into the Sabbath school.

And now the main question: "Has the Union accomplished this object?" Not as fully as it would like, we admit; but it has not been the fault of its purpose or the people who have composed it. The purpose who has composed it, the purpose who has been good, will still admit. Its constitution admits all who are anxious to help in furthering its cause. May it not be because of a lack of interest on the part of many who are not trying untiringly to help this work.

Personally I am anxious to get all the new ideas for such work that I can, and if I can give any in return will gladly do so; therefore I will give my hearty cooperation to the Sunday School Union. A. J. ALEXANDER.

Spoons Free to All.

I read in the Christian Standard that Miss A. M. Fritz, St. Louis, Mo., would give an elegant plated hook spoon to any one sending her ten 2-cent stamps. I sent for and found it so useful that I showed it to my friends, and made $13 in two hours, taking orders for the spoon. The hook spoon is a household necessity. It cannot slip into the dish or cooking vessel, being held in place by a hook on the back. The spoon is something house-keepers have needed ever since spoons were first invented. Any one can get a simple spoon by sending ten 2-cent stamps to Miss Fritz. This is a splendid way to make money around home.

Very truly,

NEW FURNITURE

From Montgomery County Wood and Made by Mt. Sterling Concerns.

September 3, 1888, Lee Fisher, barber in the Caldwell building, this city, came here as a journey workman and engaged with Charlie Price who then was in the stand now occupied by Fisher. Price was given to drink and extravagance, but Fisher was sober and economical. Soon Price had to give up his business and Fisher succeeded him. Fisher is a fine workman and had attended closely to business, losing in sixteen years only thirty-four days. He was poor, but by the best of service and attention to business, saving and adding to his furniture, he has now one of the best furnished shops in the State. Lee is only forty years old, and with health will at no distant day be in good financial shape. His furniture, every piece except the new chairs recently put in, and which are of the latest style, the Climax, was made here.
A very handsome piece of furniture,
a triple dresser, is Fisher's own design, and was made by the Star Plating Mill Co., and placed in his shop last week. His side-board, a beauty of his own design, and mug cases were made by McCormick & Burton, and a beautiful dresser by McCormick & Cox. His furniture is very handsome and complete, and Fisher feels that he is now just prepared to do business satisfactorily to himself and patrons.

We have written the above to show what a man can do from a small beginning as well as to convince the people that they can make at home as desirable furniture as they can get elsewhere.

Marvelous!

The results attained right here at home have been marvelous. Hundreds of your neighbors who have used Wright's Celery Capsules say so.

They cure Kidney, Liver and Stomach trouble, Rheumatism, Constipation and Sick Headaches. Why pay $1 every two weeks for a bottle of medicine when you can get treatment at 1 cent a day. Wright's Celery Capsules backed by a bank, to entice you or refund your money. Sold by W. S.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rushing sound of imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, bearing will be destroyed forever;
wise cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

The curfew experiment in several towns has brought results which further commend it where it has been tried, says the Kentucky Post. The increase of crime is almost guaranteed by the increase of hoodlumism. The corollary, of course, is true, that a decrease of hoodlumism will decrease crime. Call the boys in from the streets at an early hour and many of them will be better off. So will society. The curfew experiment is worth studying.

Free Advice to Horse Owners

Dr. Daubel's Horse Revivator. It regulates the stomach and kidneys, increases the weight 40 to 75 pounds drives fine "as silk." Dr. Daubel's Revivator costs fifty cents, (more than some other so-called condition pow-that it is cheaper, because it does what is claimed. Put it down. Sold
